Colder Products Company Strengthens Fitting Product Line

Polycarbonate offering supports customers worldwide where robustness and heat resistance are critical

St. Paul, MN – September 22, 2010 – Colder Products Company continues its expansion of the FitQuik™ product line at MEDTEC Ireland (booth #217) today. The latest additions include hose barb to hose barb tees, straights, elbows and Ys along with luers, all in medical-grade polycarbonate material. The new polycarbonate fittings are ideal for any application requiring biocompatibility, robustness and heat resistance. Colder's full line of fittings complements its broad quick disconnect couplings offering to provide the largest array of connector choices for medical device OEMs.

“The challenge facing medical OEMs is that there are literally thousands of connectors on the market, but they need the right one for their specific application,” said Dennis Downs, business development manager, Colder Products Company. “Our polycarbonate fittings are available in the most popular termination sizes to give customers with specific material requirements a superior connector option for high-temperature applications.”

FitQuik Connectors from Colder feature precise hose barbs and thread forms to ensure a secure, reliable fit. Available in nylon, polypropylene and now polycarbonate, these fittings are designed for tubing sizes from 1/16" to 3/8". Connect with Colder at the show to discuss custom fitting designs developed in less time and at a lower cost than other manufacturers.
